

Do You Need A Tub In Master Bathroom?

Are you considering remodeling your master bathroom and wondering if a tub is necessary?

While traditional design norms may have dictated that a bathtub is a must-have in any well-appointed master bathroom, modern trends, and personal preferences have opened up the debate. Is a tub truly necessary, or is it just a waste of space?

We will examine the benefits of having a bathtub in your master bathroom and, hopefully, help you make an informed decision that suits your lifestyle and design preferences.

So, do you need a tub in the master bathroom? Let's explore what works best for you. Keep reading to find out more!

Does a Master Bathroom Have to Have a Bathtub

Realtors used to say that having a bathtub in your master bathroom is a must. But, no hard and fast rule requires it. Many homeowners are choosing a bathroom remodel service that removes the bathtub altogether, citing various reasons.

One common cause is that modern homeowners lead busy lives and need more time to take leisurely baths. Instead, they prefer the convenience and efficiency of taking quick showers. Plus, some homeowners want to utilize the extra space in their master bathroom for other features, such as a larger shower or extra storage.

While real estate agents used to advise homeowners to have a bathtub in their master bathroom for better resale value, this is no longer the case. Many homebuyers now prefer the bathtub to be removed, as they prefer the practicality and spaciousness of a shower.

3 Large Benefits Of No Master Bathtub

Current trends indicate that no-bathtub designs are becoming increasingly popular among homeowners who favor convenience over traditional design. With these benefits in mind, skipping the tub installation may be excellent if your primary goal is to create a beautiful yet modern bathroom ambiance at the lowest possible expense and labor.

Dry off Area With Seating And Open Space

Some homeowners take their bathroom designs to the next level by including unique chairs or benches and a dry-off space within the shower. This eliminates the discomfort of stepping onto a cold tile floor after washing up and makes the bathing experience more enjoyable.

A comfortable seat or bench within the shower allows users to relax while drying off and adds a luxurious touch to the bathroom. It also eliminates the risk of slipping on a wet surface while stepping out of the shower.

More Area For Storage

Removing a master bathtub in favor of a shower can provide additional storage space in a bathroom. A bathtub can take up a lot of floor space, and eliminating it might make place for other features like additional cabinets, shelves, or even a larger vanity.

Showers can be arranged in various ways to maximize space and storage. For example, you may incorporate built-in shelves or niches for storing toiletries or install a shower caddy or organizer to keep items within reach.

Larger Shower

Expanding the size of your shower increases not only the space available for cleaning but also provides a luxurious environment, which many homeowners seek for when constructing their private hideaway.

Introducing extra elements such as multiple jets or body sprays allows homeowners to enjoy a spa-like experience in the comfort of their own homes.

With a larger shower area and additional features, you may create a serene hideaway that promotes relaxation and refreshment.

2 Main Types Of Master Bathroom Tubs

Once you've decided to add a tub in your master bathroom, you must pick which sort of bathtub will best suit your aesthetic and function. Freestanding bathtubs and drop-in bathtubs are the two major styles of master bathroom tubs.

Each variety has advantages and disadvantages, so weighing all choices before making a choice is important.

Freestanding Bathtubs

Freestanding bathtubs are a luxurious addition to any master bathroom, offering comfort, style, and visual appeal that other types of tubs cannot match.

Their unique designs add a sense of luxury to the overall decor plan, and they can be placed anywhere in the room since they rest directly on the flooring. This gives homeowners complete control over layout and design options and the flexibility..

Although freestanding bathtubs require more upkeep due to their exposed fixtures, they are excellent soaking tubs with deep pools that offer plenty of room for relaxation.

Drop-In Bathtubs

The drop-in or alcove tub is an alternative to a freestanding bathtub. Homeowners frequently favor them with limited space requiring a quick installation process. Because they fit into existing structures such as walls and floors, drop-in bathtubs usually require less plumbing installation.

There are three major factors to consider when purchasing a drop-in bathtub:

1. Installation - Determine whether your bathroom has enough space to accommodate this type of tub.
2. Design - Select one that complements the overall aesthetic of your master bathroom.
3. Accessibility - Make sure it's easy to enter and exit so you don't experience any difficulty getting in and out.

Drop-in bathtubs are an appealing alternative for individuals searching for convenience and low maintenance. Besides being aesthetically beautiful, these tubs provide excellent functionality without requiring renovation work.

Benefits Of A Bathtub

Bathtubs offer numerous benefits for physical and mental health, making them a must-have feature in a master bathroom. They provide relaxation, stress relief, and relief for aches, pains, and stiff muscles.

Whirlpools and air baths with massage jets provide luxurious amenities that enhance blood circulation, relieve discomfort, and leave you feeling invigorated.

Plus, bathtubs come in elegant designs and various forms and sizes that add a touch of sophistication and luxury to any bathroom.

Most importantly, bathtubs offer the potential for much-needed 'me-time' and self-care, whether used alone or with a loved one, making them a valuable investment.

Concluding Remarks

When designing your dream bathroom, including or excluding a tub is just one piece of the puzzle. If you're considering a bathroom remodel or renovation, the experts at Phoenix Home Remodeling can help you create a space that perfectly fits your needs and style.

Our experienced professionals will work closely with you to understand your vision and help you make informed decisions about design, materials, and budget. We pride ourselves on our attention to detail and our commitment to providing exceptional customer service from start to finish.

To learn more about this, visit:

<https://phxhomeremodeling.com/do-you-need-a-tub-in-master-bathroom/>